BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS FAIL

Body To Lie In State In Magnificent Capitol Constructed During Long's Term As Governor of Louisiana

(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.)

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 10.—United States Senator Huey P. Long, known the world over as the dictator of his native Louisiana, died today of a wound inflicted by an assassin.

Physicians battled for 31 hours to save the political chieftain's life. They performed one operation, five blood transfusions and administered artificial oxygen to no avail. Death came at 4:06 a. m., central standard time.

The widow, who married him 22 years ago after her alibi testimony saved him from charges in a shooting scrape, was led dry-eyed from Our Lady of the Lake hospital. She had been in the bedside in constant vigil since Sunday night.

A "gunshot wound in the abdomen" was officially given as the cause of the senator's death by Dr. E. L. Sanderson, who said there was "not necessarily" any complications.

Dr. G. S. Long, a brother of the senator, was quoted as saying, however, that the bullet which entered the right side, puncturing the colon in two places, also penetrated the kidney. The senator was 42 years old.

SLAIN BY POLITICAL FOE

The gunshot wound was inflicted by Dr. Carl A. Weiss, Jr., kinsman of a Long political enemy, in the corridor of the Louisiana state capitol at 9:20 p. m. Sunday night.

Even before his death, there were demands for a full investigation of the fatal shooting. In Washington, Representative Fenerty (R., Pa.) declared:

"The congressional committee which is about to investigate Senator Long's activities in Louisiana might also investigate who it was who investigated his attempted murder."

The senator had just stepped from the house chamber after pushing toward completion a number of special session acts aimed at the federal administration, and toward consolidating his already almost unbelievable personal control of the state's affairs.

Dr. Weiss, a 30-year-old eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, pressed a gun into the senator's stomach and fired. His arm was deflected before he could fire a second shot, and Long's body guardsmen, state highway policemen, killed him on the spot with a fusillade of nearly sixty bullets. Dr. Weiss was buried yesterday.

LONG WANTED TO LIVE

Governor O. K. Allen, who was tearful as he emerged from the death chamber, said the senator wondered "what will happen to my poor university boys." The senator made himself the particular patron of the football team of the University of Louisiana.

Fighting determinedly, Long told Seymour Weiss, a close friend and treasurer of the Long organization, at the bedside:

"I want to live."
The body was sent to a funeral home.

Christenberry said the body of the senator would be in state in the five million dollar capitol which was erected when he was governor and in which he was shot. Other arrangements awaited a conference in the office of Governor Allen.

At the bedside besides Mrs. Long and the children, Governor Allen and Christenberry, were the senator's sisters, Mrs. W. M. Knott and Mrs. Stewart Hunt, and their husbands; his brothers, Dr. G. S. Long, Julius and Earl and the latter's wife; his father, Dr. Roy Long, and several cousins.

ROOMS CLEANED AT HIGH SCHOOL

Interior of Building Is Washed, Painted As WPA Project

Sixteen men, working nights, are washing and painting the interior of Salem High school as a part of the WPA project approved by the state recently for the Salem public school district.

The workmen already have completed the repainting job in 13 of the 40 rooms and halls.

The government allotted the school district $1,470 recently to clear the rooms previous to the painting. The school board's contribution on the work was only $90.

A federal grant of $2,583 was made for the repainting work to which the school board contributed $1,327.

The WPA project of pointing the brick work at McKinley school has been started, Superintendent E. S. Kerr said today. Columbia school also was included in this project for which the government grant was $296 and the school board's share, $67.

Workers are expected to get started this week on the job of caulking on four school buildings, between brickwork and window and door frames. Federal funds for this project is $152; school board, $218.

The repainting project at Fourth Street school has been completed in 10 of 24 rooms and halls. Mr. Kerr said today. A federal grant of $750 was obtained for this job to which the school board advanced $1,580.

The project involves the removing of old armored cable and replacing with conduit carried wires, replacing of fixtures, switches and plugs.

Returns from 3,299 of the state's 4,219 precincts gave Chandler 201,497 and Thomas S. Rhea, whose candidacy was backed by the administration of Gov. Ruby Laffoon, 183,176.

Long Had Dislike For "The Kingfish"

(By Associated Press)
BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 10.—The sobriquet "Kingfish" slipped up on Huey Long.

He adopted it as a joke from a radio program and immediately his friends seized upon it and labelled him "Kingfish Long."

Long never did like the title and at one time was heard to remark:

"Kingfish, hell! I'm no fish. I'm gonna get me a title with something like lion and tiger in it."

But he never succeeded in escaping the title "Kingfish."

U. S. WILL DROP RELIEF BURDEN

Responsibility Will Be Shifted To Local Communities

COLUMBUS, Sept. 10.—A portion of Ohio's 1,100,000 unemployed will be cut off from federal relief next Sunday and responsibility for their care shifted to county agencies.

Federal relief officials said this would be the first step in a state-wide program to turn the entire relief load over to the counties by Nov. 1. Ten counties are affected by the initial change.

WPA To Absorb Load

C. C. Stillman, federal administrator for Ohio, has pointed out that present plans call for high-grade operation of the gigantic Works Progress Administration program by Nov. 1. This already has absorbed thousands of jobs.

Dayton Frost, assistant administrator, said that the elaborate direct relief set-up in Ohio would be dismantled as soon as possible.

"We are proceeding slowly," he said. "We first want to be sure that the counties are in financial condition to handle the job. Because of the exhaustive investigation it is taking longer than anticipated."

County relief officials, warned of this action a month ago, have been attempting to devise means for handling the huge burden.

Governor Davey promised a statewide delegation recently that he would include the problem in a call for a special session of the legislature which he expects to issue soon.

Frost said that counties which can issue bonds under the Carey act without a vote of the people will be the first to administer their own relief.

Permits Bonds Issues

Enacted at the last session of the general assembly, the Carey act permits counties to issue bonds pledged against revenue from the one per cent utility excise tax.

However, many counties are affected by a supreme court decision which held that bond issues must not exceed the constitutional 10-mill limitation unless approved by the voters.

Knox county is one of the 10 to receive the extra relief load first. Frost said he would not know for a few days which other counties would be affected.

Knox county officials conferred with the state tax commission Monday concerning a bond issuance committee under the Carey act.

AGE PENSIONS ARE SUSPENDED

Funds Are Exhausted; Await Special Meet Of Legislature

COLUMBUS, Sept. 10.—Ohio halted today payments of old age pensions to 85,000 aged.

The aid for the aged bureau of the auditor of state's offices reported that available funds for pensions were exhausted Monday afternoon.

Only about half of the pension beneficiaries will receive their checks for August. The auditor called a halt to the mailing of checks when his assistants reached names beginning with the letter "H" in Muskingum county.

Remaining Checks Withheld

Checks already written will go forward. Checks for the other pension beneficiaries will be written but will be withheld from the mails until the legislature provides additional funds.

Governor Davey has promised to call the general assembly into special session this month to consider the old age pension financing problem. He has announced no definite date but said informally he planned to call the session for around the first of next week.

An announcement from the auditor's office, however, said the special session will be called "probably for Sept. 24."

More than $2,000,000 in profits of the state liquor monopoly system lie idle in the treasurer of state's office. Under a new liquor law that became effective last Thursday, this money is set aside for old age pensions but it cannot be released until the legislature specifically appropriates it for the purpose.

The new law set aside all profits of the liquor monopoly for pensions but the $2,000,000 is surplus accumulated before the amended liquor law went into effect.

Building Program Up

The special legislative session also will consider a means of providing for the building program.

An interesting feature of the meeting will be a cake contest sponsored by the Home Economics committee. Members of the grange, including the juveniles, are eligible for the competition. Each contestant is required to bring either an angel food cake or a devil's food cake for the judging.

Winners in the grange contest will compete for honors in similar contests in the Pomona and State granges later.

A telegram had been received by the McCloskey family here last Friday which stated that Thomas McCloskey had developed pneumonia after being taken to the hospital for injuries. The telegram was not signed.

DRIVER KILLED AS TRUCKS HIT

Indiana Man Crushed As Vehicle Overturns Near Columbiana

One man was killed and another injured when two truck-trailer outfits collided at the junction of routes 7 and 14, just east of Columbiana, shortly after midnight today.

The dead man is Ivan Hovis, 37, of Shoals, Ind. His nephew, Earl Hovis, 23, is in Salem City hospital suffering from face lacerations and bruise burns and bruises about the body.

Crushed To Death

Ivan Hovis was crushed to death when he was pinned beneath their truck when it overturned after side-swiping another truck driven by Heywood Ritchie of Marietta.

State Highway Patrolmen F. S. Van Allen, G. B. Adams and Gross-lau of the Salem barracks said the accident occurred when Hovis failed to stop at the route intersection, striking Ritchie's truck, which had the right-of-way.

The patrolmen were unable to learn whether Ivan or Earl Hovis was driving their truck, traveling toward Salem on Route 14, Ritchie was enroute to East Liverpool on Route 7.

When the accident happened, the Hovis truck spun completely around in the road, overturning. Earl Hovis was thrown clear of the vehicle.

The patrolmen were unable to extricate Hovis' body from the wreckage until two tow trucks, one of them from Salem, lifted the truck.

Coroner Called

Coroner W. C. Maple, who was called to the scene, pronounced Hovis dead. His body was taken to the Lowry funeral home at East Palestine in Lowry's ambulance.

The Hovis truck was hauling general merchandise while Ritchie's truck contained barrels of oil, the highway patrolmen reported.

Long Described As Champion for Masses

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Official and political Washington united today in deploring the assassination of Senator Huey P. Long.

He was variously described as "a champion for the toiling masses," a dramatic personality and a talented orator.

Comment included: Representative Binkerd (Democrat, Neb.): "In the death of Huey Long the nation lost a friend of humanity, a champion for the toiling masses, a peerless statesman who had the courage to stand up and fight alone for principles he deemed right and worthy."

Representative Lea (Democrat, Calif.): "Regardless of what anyone might think of his career, that method of terminating it must be condemned."

Senator Sheppard (Democrat, Texas): "Senator Long was one of the most forceful and picturesque characters in our political history."

2 NEW TEACHERS
HIRED BY BOARD

Congestion Is Reported At Some Points In System

A total of 2,505 boys and girls trudged back to public schools following three months of summer vacation.

The attendance figure was announced today by Superintendent E. S. Kerr as the total enrollment for the opening day. The usual slight increase was expected before the end of the week.

Superintendent Kerr announced that congestion again was encountered at the high school this year but that under present facilities there was no way of relieving the condition.

The elementary school enrollment total was 1,252. Congestion in the schools this term is not as bad as it was two years ago, Mr. Kerr said.

Hire Two Teachers

The board of education, meeting Monday night in the high school, hired two new teachers to fill vacancies. Miss Helen Redinger, graduate of St. Mary's college, was named as sixth grade teacher at Prospect school, and Miss Elizabeth Snyder, Kent State graduate, was employed to teach third grade at Fourth st. school.

Miss Snyder graduated from Salem High school in 1930.

The board also approved continuing the services of Miss Julia Bodo on an indefinite term as stenographer at the high school.

Four Are Arrested After Gas Robbery

Four men, whose ages range from 18 to 23, were held in the county jail at Lisbon today on a charge of suspicion after they had been picked up by State Highway Patrolman F. S. Van Allen Monday night.

Van Allen, who had dropped into the sheriff's office at Lisbon, heard a report that an automobile carrying four men had just driven away from a gasoline station in Hanoverton without paying for nine gallons.

The Salem patrolman waited along Route 30 and, noticing a machine approaching with license plates bent backward, saw the quartet and arrested them.

POTATO REBELLION

The potato control provisions in the amendment to the agricultural adjustment act are rousing many hitherto placid citizens to alarm. A potato rebellion is indicated, if the government attempts to enforce the law.

Potato control is a logical development of crop control. The question is on crop control, therefore. Is it logical? It must lead inevitably to restrictions on other crops, besides potatoes. The meaning of agricultural regimentation has been made plain to every housewife who might be fined or imprisoned for using potatoes raised illegally.

Potato control started with cotton control. Land taken out of cotton cultivation was planted in peanuts. Consequently, a peanut control act was necessary. Land taken out of peanut cultivation was planted to potatoes, and a potato control act became necessary.

Congressmen who objected to the principle of cotton control were found in some instances to favor potato control. That was because their constituents had been affected by application of the crop control principle in such a way that they needed the benefit of control over other crops.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, forecasting the ultimate development of nationalism in agriculture, once said:

"If we finally go all the way toward nationalism it may be necessary to have compulsory control of marketing, licensing of plowed land, and . . . quotas for every farmer for every product for each month in the year. We may have to have government control of all surpluses, and a far greater degree of public ownership than we have now. It may be necessary to make a public utility out of agriculture. . . . Every plowed land would have its permit sticking up on its post."

The potato control act, which brings Secretary Wallace's prophecy close to fulfillment, has revealed the meaning of crop control. It threatens to be the turning point in a trend whose direction previously had been given no general notice.

NOT APPROVED

Americans, though appearing in many cases to do so, do not really condone the murderous assault made by Dr. Carl A. Weiss, Jr., on Sen. Huey Long. Dr. Weiss, killed summarily by Sen. Long's bodyguards, commands no approval for his act. It was both criminal and foolish.

Violence is not part of the American political creed. Americans resent it because they discern in direct action a direct threat to freedom. If life is put at stake in political arguments, there can be no fairness in the arguments.

Yet, because Sen. Long has used force unscrupulously to advance himself as political boss of Louisiana, it is not difficult to sympathize with the desire of some of his more bitter enemies to deal with him violently. Dictators cannot expect to be loved.

Sen. Long has been prepared many years to deal with such an attack as was made on his life Sunday night. His heavily armed bodyguards have been plain proof of the faith he placed in the rule of force. The enemies he made by ruthlessness were bound to be ruthless in retaliation, and he was ready for them. Unfortunately, his precautions were faulty.

Sen. Long did what he considered necessary, according to his lights. He took greater risks than usual to get far greater power than is usual in a democracy. He invited disrespect and hatred with apparently no concern. If Huey Long's countrymen are unable to muster up indignation over the fact a seemingly intelligent man took his life, that should be apparent that Long had failed to win approval for his ideas.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Columbus Circle has become nightly an American vision of that entrance to London's Hyde Park known as Marble Arch. There, as here, the radicals and discontents pop off steam. In London they rent a portable platform for a shilling and spout for an hour.

They can harangue everything from Premier MacDonald's Scotch burr to Queen Mary's bird nest hat with a detail of bobbies to protect them from showers of over-ripe fruit. The same hot-mouthed freedom is exercised in Columbus Circle but they bring their own soap boxes.

The communists, fascists, atheists and exponents of less violent isms begin around 7 p. m. and are usually going hellbells at midnight. Among them are some rather fine orators, restrained and dramatic, and audiences may move about and shop for their forensics.

Rarely are there hecklers. It seems a listening but listless crowd with nothing else to do. Just as they do not heckle, they do not applaud. The move from Madison Square to the Circle has been sudden. Last night seven were in action. Down in Madison Square there were but two.

Airy persiflage. Variety's Jack Pulaski recently flew from New York to California. Very gravely before taking off he asked the pilot to fly low and slow over Lake Hopatcong. "I want to wave to Joe Cook," he explained.

The Lambs was one of the first places in town to install a hat check room with attendant. Booth Tark-ington was responsible for the innovation. The custom had been for members to place their hats on a rack around the wall. Now and then Tarkington enjoying a loose evening used to roll in overcome by an uncontrollable urge to wreck hats, with a special eye for crushing derbies. Next morning each victim received an order from Tarkington on the most exclusive hatter for his finest hat.

I talked today to a man who was not so long ago subjected to bitter calumny for espousing an idealistic cause in which he thoroughly believed. I complimented him on his remarkable forbearance. Many former friends had turned on him. When I finished he said quietly: "It was nothing. The greatest man who ever lived called Judas friend until the last. I could at least say nothing."

City Interlude: On Fourth avenue in the 20's the streets suddenly filled with hook and ladder wagons, puffing fire engines and ambulances. Traffic was cut off in four different directions. In the center of the hubbub the straw seat of a motorcycle was on fire.

Don Herold, artist, writer, humorist, lecturer and movie critic, has gone all in a hurry commercial. Quit the peaks of Olympus for the low valleys of trade, as it were. He has become an advertising specialist for a group of big industrial accounts, spread himself over a flock of offices that suggest the Grand Central waiting room and with all the inter-office electrical devices that keep things top speed. Furthermore the boys who used to drop into Don's various studios with the informality of the house cat now face a uniformed office despot who hands them a slip inquiring: Name? Nature of Business?

Timid cafe bosses are eagerly watching the most recent experiment of the men who gave Broadway its famous Palais Royal and introduced Paul Whitehead to the street. If their Cafe de l'Opera clicks on the old Embassy location on East 57th street, much coy and reluctant night club backing may be brought into the open again. Jimmy Thompson is the "money man" and Gil Boag the "front man" of the quixotic venture. They have been out of the game for 15 years—and whether they have retained the magic touch is to be demonstrated. In their hey-day they had no equals in attracting stiff shirts and ermine. Since then the world turned over.

H. L. sends a clipping from his home paper in Arkansas concerning the lad who landed a job as a mixer in the town's mullage factory. A copy reader with his own sense of comedy captioned it: LOCAL BOY MAKES GOO!

Height of indifference: Basil Woon once saw an American trying to read the sport page of his home newspaper by the light of rockets bursting in air at one of those gorgeous fireworks exhibits at Versailles.

THE STARS SAY

For Wednesday, September 11.

A day of an array of strong opposition and conflict, with the forces of hostility rampant as well as sinister, is the forecast made from the ruling lunar and mutual configurations. And while there may be a sudden change of benefit, with the prospect of other unexpected advantages, yet it would be wise to keep a watchful eye to all possible hazards, pitfalls and treacheries. Great prudence as well as indomitable self-control are called for lest strife and tumult mar promised benefits. Be careful with all writings and contracts.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may fortify themselves against a year of much conflict, opposition and obstacle, despite some prospect of a beneficial change or journey. Much of this frustration may be aggravated by a tendency to quick temper, hasty speech and rash indulgences. Sign all papers carefully and be alert to treachery and underhand work and schemes.

A child born on this day may be studious and of serious mind and good intention, but disposed to outbursts of temper and tempest unless disciplined in youth.

ALTHOUGH LEAD poisoning is not as common as it was in former years, it is still too frequently encountered. As a rule it is found among laborers in certain industrial plants where precautions are not taken to prevent it. Occasionally it is encountered in some unexpected place where it resulted from the use of some substance containing an excessive amount of lead.

When the true nature of the disturbance is not suspected it may be mistaken for some other ailment. As a matter of fact, in the mild form of lead poisoning the symptoms are always misleading. The disease can easily be confused with appendicitis or some disturbance of the gall bladder.

Symptoms of Disease

As a rule, the victim is first seized with an attack of acute pain in the abdomen. He suffers from nausea and vomiting, loss of appetite, and may even run a temperature. It will be readily seen how this picture can be confused with that of an attack of appendicitis or some digestive disturbance.

Of course, the chronic form of lead poisoning is more easily recognized. There is a peculiar paralysis which usually involves the wrist or ankle. This is known as "wrist-drop" or "angle-drop." It is impossible to keep the wrist in normal position or to control the movements of the foot below the ankle.

The sufferer from lead poisoning usually has poor health. He may complain of colic, constipation and loss of strength. As a rule he becomes progressively weaker and unable to carry on with his work.

Teeth Affected

Soon the teeth become sensitive and loose, with an excessive flow of saliva. Upon examination it will be found that the teeth are in poor condition. A characteristic sign of lead poisoning or other metal poisoning is the presence of a black streak along the margins of the teeth and gums. This should always arouse suspicion.

In the treatment of lead poisoning often complete rest in bed is advisable. Fresh air in abundance, sunlight and nourishing food are essential. The diet should contain plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables. Any tendency toward constipation should be corrected. At least six to eight glasses of water should be taken every day.

To prevent lead poisoning avoid contamination with lead fumes and prolonged contact with the metal. Formerly the use of lead pipes for carrying drinking water gave rise to colic and other symptoms of lead poisoning. But, today, lead pipes, while they are used for drains, rarely come in contact with drinking water.

SYNOPSIS

Jerome Crain, young naval architect, and wealthy society girl named Linda, are guests aboard the yacht owned by the millionaire, Thomas Tucker, anchored at San Cristobal. Jerome and Linda are bored with one another and when the other guests go ashore, the young couple, each believing the other had gone, stays on board. One of the sailors contracts fever and the yacht is quarantined. No one is allowed to come aboard or leave. But Jerome and Linda escape in a boat, landing on a strange island. Linda wanders off while Jerome repairs the boat. Later, he finds her scantily clad, the clothes she took off to dry missing. Linda and Jerome have the uncomfortable feeling of being followed. Suddenly an eerie cry issues from the jungle, frightening them to hurry back to the beach in time to see their boat—which Jerome had been secretly drifting away and most of his clothes gone, too.

CHAPTER V

There came again from the dense jungle farther back and abreast of them that sinister inhuman cry, which Linda had heard when she was first brought to the island. This island is inhabited by some of the monsters. Half man, half ape.

"If that's what the trekking's like, I see where I'd be in a few minutes," said Linda.

"Well, come on," he said impatiently. "We can tell something from their tracks." They hurried on, she said, "I'm tired, Jerry. Beasts don't steal clothes and set boats adrift. But I should anybody want to keep here? And that yell certainly isn't human."

"I don't know what to make of unless they're baboons. But I hardly expect them to clear the beach and shove the boat off that she'd drift away."

They came to the spot where the boat had been moored. Not an arrow was to be seen. Jerome's shirt and trousers and shoes and socks had been spread out to dry and had disappeared.

The sand was scuffed to some extent by various traces including tracks made by himself. But all of these were indistinguishable because the sand here was dry and retained no distinct impressions. What was most puzzling, the firmer sand below high water mark was very fine and hard, and while it showed some faint impressions these were of a blurred, stepped sort, as if something had been dragged along to obliterate whatever had been thought of as a moment's track.

"Whoever cast off the boat must have swiped the sail. It is flurled and stopped and he pulled it by the two ends and hauled it to the beach after him."

Then it's a person," Linda said. "Human. But that horrid cry wasn't human." "Somebody's lived in there somewhere, got to locate him, whoever whatever he may be. We can't like this."

flecked with blood from thorn scratches. Whoever had made off with their goods could hardly drag them through such a tangle. Somewhere there must be a path. He came back to Linda. She looked at him with her mouth drawn down.

"If that's what the trekking's like I see where I'd be in a few minutes. Stark!" "Worse. Skin torn to ribbons. It won't do. Let's go along the edge and look for a trail."

Even this was rough going but proved encouraging. They came to where a little stream pierced the jungle and disappeared in a clear pool behind a mass of rock. The water was sweet and fairly cool and they drank eagerly.

"Let's get in to that," Linda said, and stretched out on the sand in about a foot and a half of water. Jerome batted his scratches. They started up the stream. This was easy going. The jungle deepened, furnished a cool heavy shade. Five feet of the trees increased. Before they had gone three hundred yards they were startled by the shrill ringing crow of a cock.

"That's one thing we can eat," Jerome said. "Somebody lives here." They came to a smooth ledge of rock that was sheer for about five feet and covered with fine moss of a vivid green. The little stream poured over it in an exquisite waterfall. They made their way round the natural dam and looked amazed at what might be described as a chapel in Paradise.

Linda drew in her breath deeply and let it out in a gasp of rapture. Jerry could only stare. Coming from the hot desolation of the sand even the cool mossy arcade of the brook had not been able to prepare them for such natural beauty as was here.

Farther back they could see the edge of a small plantation of citrus fruits that were green and yellow. There were some papaya trees and avocados and the bright red points of coffee beans glowed like embers. There were huge clusters of bananas, coconuts and pandanus palms, and a great profusion of brilliant flowers. Here and there flamboyants blazed through the heavy shade like the red sectors of light houses through the murk of night.

"Fairland!" Linda murmured. Near the head of the pool was a low stone house with screened windows and a veranda. A trellis lead jammed off from it was covered with jasmine of which the odor perfumed all the premises. These had a carefully tended look. Yet there was no indication of occupancy; no scent of wood smoke, nor utensils nor any evidences of present tenantry. It gave the impression of being tangible and yet detached from further phase of human habitation. It seemed suspended in a half world of its own.

Couple Wed In Church at East Goshen

Miss Verda Malmesberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Malmesberry, Route No. 1, Beloit, O., became the bride of Earl Russell Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Cunningham of Deerfield, at the close of the morning worship service at the East Goshen Friends church, Sunday at noon, the occasion falling on the 25th wedding anniversary of the bride's parents.

The wedding, which was performed by Rev. Omar Jacobs of Springfield, O., who until two weeks ago had been the bride's pastor for eight years. He was assisted by the new pastor, Rev. Harlan Mosher.

Immediately after the worship service Mrs. Jack Marshall of Deerfield sang, "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. Curtis Santee on the piano, who also used Lohengrin's wedding march for the professional. The members of the bridal party took their places before the altar which was attractively decorated with beautiful garden flowers, where the ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Jacobs, with Rev. Mosher, officiating the closing prayer. The attendants were Miss Treva Hack, cousin of the bride, and Howard Trotter, both of Salem.

The bride was charming in white crepe, with a soft tulle veil caught at the head with orange blossoms, falling in soft folds with full court train. Her flowers were bridal roses in pastel pink and baby's breath, caught with satin tulle.

The bridesmaid, Miss Hack wore a lovely gown of purple transparent velvet, with matching accessories and carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham received at the church immediately following the ceremony.

A wedding dinner followed at the bride's home. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Malmesberry and sons, Rolland and Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cunningham, Miss Treva Hack, Howard Trotter, Rev. and Mrs. Omar Jacobs, Billy Hutchinson and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Marshall.

The bride and groom left Sunday afternoon on a wedding trip to Pittsburgh, where they will visit relatives for a few days and upon their return will be at the home of the bride's parents for the present. Later they expect to make their home in Alliance, where the groom is employed at Transue Williams.

Mrs. Cunningham is a graduate of Goshen Township High school, and Mr. Cunningham is a graduate of Deerfield High school.

FRIENDS, FOES MOURN SENATOR

Regret at Long's Passing and Denounce Assassination

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Both friends and opponents of Senator Huey P. Long today expressed regret at his passing and joined in denouncing the assassination.

His death removed one of the largest question marks from the 1936 presidential race. Official Washington expected he would be an independent candidate.

Violence Abhorred Calls for law and order in governmental affairs were widespread. "It is seriously disturbing to learn of a resort to unlawful violence as a political weapon anywhere in America," said Secretary Morgenthau.

"Detestable" was the word used by Senator Norris (R-Nebr.) to describe the slaying.

"There will be some bad effects from it," he added. "It was unjustified."

Norris said "There was lots of good in Huey Long" and that "his heart was right although his method wasn't."

"It is intolerable and unthinkable and outrages all decency when people have the ballot and could have given the senator a supreme test by that means within a few weeks without resorting to taking up instruments of murder," Senator Bone (D-Wash.) said.

Expressing the same thought, Father Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit priest, said at Albany that "Our motto must always be 'ballots, not bullets'."

"The most colorful member of the United States senate has passed on," said Senator Donahue (D-Ohio). "He was brilliant x x x his passing was a tragedy that every fair-minded man must deplore."

Shock, sorrow and wonder about the political effect of his death mingled in varying degrees in the capital and throughout the nation.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeanette Young Norton

COFFEE DESSERTS RICH COFFEE flavoring helps to make delicious desserts. All the recipes here given use their delectable flavor to coffee. Let's start with coffee pie, and it is a marvel of a pie.

Set aside one cup of fresh strong coffee and soak one tablespoon granulated gelatin in two tablespoons of the coffee, cold. Then add three-quarters of a cup sugar, quarter teaspoon salt and three egg yolks, and mix slightly. Bring the remaining coffee to a boil, add gradually the gelatin-egg mixture and stir till the gelatin is dissolved.

Chill. When slightly thickened, beat with rotary egg beater until light and foamy. Fold in the three egg-whites, stiffly beaten. Turn into one cold, baked nine-inch pie shell and chill firm. I desire garnish with whipped cream.

Coffee Carnival Recipe Try coffee carnival for your next party. Place one and a half cups of water in top of double boiler and bring to a boil over direct heat. Combine one-third of a cup of quick cooking tapioca, half cup sugar, level teaspoon salt and add gradually to the boiling water, then add one-third of a cup of seedless raisins and bring to a brisk boil, stirring constantly. Place immediately over boiling water and cook five minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from boiling water—the mixture clears and thickens as it cools. When slightly cool add one cup strong coffee and one teaspoon vanilla. Chill, then fold in one cup cream, whipped. Serve in sherbet glasses. Serves six.

Cream butter frosting is delicious and the amounts given here will yield sufficient frosting for about two dozen cup cakes, or enough to cover tops of two nine-inch layers, or top and sides of 8x8x2 inch cake. Cream one and a half tablespoons butter. Sift together two cups sifted confectioners' sugar, one tablespoon cocoa and one-eighth of a teaspoon salt. Add part of this mixture gradually to butter, blending after each addition. Add remaining sugar mixture alternately with three and a half tablespoons strong coffee until of right consistency to spread. Beat after each addition till smooth. Add one teaspoon vanilla.

HOME MAKING HELPS

BUYING blankets is a mighty important business and it is sad to relate that often the housewife who prides herself on being an expert shopper selects blankets that do not wear as well as she thought they would.

Of course, the wisest thing in the world is to wait for a sale of a famous brand even if the sale price is slightly higher than is asked for new merchandise, it is well worth the difference. A fine brand manufactures only so much merchandise so that you are generally sure that what you are getting is not old merchandise.

Blanket Qualities

Usually one finds that blankets made under a nationally known label have live, springy wool that denotes its newness. And the blanket is, of course, all-wool. The nap is strong but not excessively so. The binding is of fine quality satin or silk. When buying brand-name blankets next season, you will most likely find some important information on the label for it will list the fiber content, weight, tensile strength, warp and filling, size and suitability and laundering information as well as the degree of color fastness. This data will be scientific but not unduly so far it will be couched in terms that we all understand.

We are slowly but surely approaching the day when most merchandise will be specified in order to give the consumer dollar full value.

But to get back to our blankets, they are highly important items of the household, so important that the housewife values her blankets as she does her silver and china. When winter ends her blankets are washed or cleaned and stored in a special chest, and at the end of the warm weather her summer blankets receive the same careful treatment.

And when putting away blankets for the season, it is wise to really put them away so that no member of the family can grab an extra blanket out of store when he or she feels like it. At the end of summer, the winter supply should be fresh, clean and free from moths.

Hints on Buying...

If you want to replenish your supply of summer blankets for next year you will find some excellent merchandise in the shops right now. It is better to buy a thin, woolen blanket for warm weather rather than a cotton one. Cotton is nice and cool when it is woven in single layers but when woven in triple or quadruple ply it becomes heavy, hot and oppressive. Then, too, after laundering the cotton blanket is apt to mat down and become hard, since washing will remove much of its nap which was only simulated.

Good wool acts as an insulator and keeps the heat away from the body. Then, too, good wool is comfortable but never heavy. During the summer the shops featured some delightful blankets, delicate reproduction of the "throw" type of covering done in a light, lacy weave and finished with a knotted fringe. These were available only in the higher bracket type of merchandise but so successful have these blankets been that next year almost all manufacturers will be making them.

Sen. Davis Approves Davey Relief Plans

CINCINNATI—Ohio Republicans and Democrats alike had been exhorted today to back Governor Davey in his program to spend $20,000,000 in federal money for relief in the Buckeye state.

United States Senator James J. Davis (R., Pa.) spoke from the same platform as did Governor Davey at a meeting of Cincinnati members of the Loyal Order of Moose Sunday.

Davey confined his remarks to observations on fraternalism.

Davis, however, quoted him as having said he planned to put 16,000 unemployed to work under federal grant, and to pay them the same wages that employed men and women in similar work are regularly receiving.

"That policy," observed Davis, "has my unqualified approval."

STEEL REPORTS LARGE ORDERS

Broader Outlook Is Seen For Industry For Fall Months

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—Large orders are giving a broader outlook to the steel industry, the magazine Steel said today, noting at the same time that ingot production last week, at 52 per cent, was almost triple the rate of a year ago.

Iron and steel bridged the Labor day holiday with scarcely a tremor and enters a period which is expected to develop somewhat more than a normal fall pickup, the magazine said.

Broader Market "Factors making for strength continue dominant," it said, adding, "the market base increasingly appears broader, and in the last few days some large tonnage projects have crept into the market laws."

One of the largest named was the $3,790-ton award of the Metropolitan water district of Los Angeles for concrete reinforcing bars.

"Finishing mills suffered some losses from last Monday's shutdown," Steel said, but its estimate showed ingot production was down only a half-point.

Production was down 1/2 point to 32 1/2 per cent in eastern Pennsylvania; 3 to 7 in New England; 5 to 32 at Buffalo; 2 to 69 at Youngstown; Detroit was unchanged at 94.

Cleveland-Lorain at 56, Chicago at 57. Wheeling made a gain of 6 points, to 84; Pittsburgh was up 1 to 45, and Birmingham 5 to 45 1/2.

Great Lakes shipments of iron ore for the season to Sept. 1 totaled 17,386,599 tons, topping the corresponding period of 1934 by 11 per cent, Steel said.

MUD PREVAILS
AS QUAKERS GO THROUGH DRILL

Scrimmage During Entire Afternoon Practice

Prospective Salem High school gridiron stars received their first taste of "good old mother earth" from a somewhat muddy Reilly field as they went through a full practice session of hard scrimmage yesterday afternoon.

Coach Lewis Smith had originally intended to devote the afternoon practice to punting, blocking and line drill, but the ideal scrimmage weather, which followed the morning rain, changed his schedule.

"Greenness" Still Present

Although the inexperience and typical "greenness" among the new candidates was still present, the Quakers served additional warning during scrimmage yesterday that they will be a contender of district gridiron honors this year.

Fred Brantsch, pile-driving candidate for the fullback position who is in his first year with the Quaker team, dominated the afternoon session as he displayed a powerful stiff-arm in connection with ball-carrying ability to lead the second string squad on several marches down the field. The so-called regulars were at a loss in finding a means of halting Brantsch's ball-totting performance.

Snyder Performs Well

Another newcomer to the squad, Ralph "Tunny" Snyder, who is slated to hold down one of the tackle positions on this year's team, performed well during the scrimmage.

Smith, continuing his policy of not overworking his squad, sent them to the dressing room around 5 p. m.

The gridirers held their first "chalk talk" at the high school last night. Joe Kelley, manager of the Memorial building, and Ray Reasbeck, both registered Ohio scholastic officials, led the discussion at the meeting last night on the "Three R's" of football—rules, requirements and regulations.

The second "chalk talk" is scheduled for Wednesday night at the high school. Eddie Pukalski will preside over a discussion on "Strategy" at this meeting.

EARL MAY WINS
BATTING HONOR

United Cigars Catcher Has .431 Batting Average

Earl May, heavy-hitting catcher for the United Cigars, is the number one bat in Class A softball circles today.

May led the 1935 Class A league batters for the latest season in the final averages compiled and posted today by Ray Reasbeck, Class A league official. His percentage was .431, a safe margin over his nearest rival, Arthur "Shorty" Borton of Mullins who ended in the runner-up position with a .423 average.

Reasbeck pointed out that the averages which he has listed are only those of players who were at bat at least 45 times during the 1935 season, and that these averages do not include the championship series now in progress.

The following are the final averages:

UNDERTAKER IS LITTLE'S NEXT

Plays Bill Lain Today; Makes Comeback To Defeat King

(By Associated Press) CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—Bill Lain of Chicago, an undertaker in white, today undertook the big job of burying the national amateur golf championship hopes of Lawson Little—a task that 24 other men in England and America have failed to accomplish during the last two years.

One of Chicago's leading amateurs, Lain, a tall blonde with a flair for white togery, challenged the march of the human siege gun from San Francisco in the second round, but his hope of success in his venture was rather gloomy.

Little was believed to have been shot down and buried in his first 18-hole start over the soggy clay turf terrain of the Cleveland Country club yesterday, but he proved to be a lively "corpse" that could rise again and still win.

Three Down Three down through five holes against Rufus King, 19-year-old trapezist from Wichita Falls, Texas, Little conclusively proved his class and became a greater favorite than ever over his field by coming back to crush his youthful opponent, 3 and 1.

It was the hardest fight he has had to wage since he started out on his great march—a march that has won the British amateur title twice in succession and the American amateur once—but he had the fight and the weapons to repel the attack of the "Kid," who dazzled him by scoring four birdies in succession over the first five holes.

Little, down only once before in 23 matches and that time only one hole behind, was probably more amazed yesterday than was the black-haired "Kid," who won his first known five years ago by trapezisting blue ribbon title event.

Putting like a wizard and banging dead nubbies against the pin, he halved the first two holes with a par and a birdie, and then shot 3-2, three straight birdies to win as many holes. It took a 20-foot putt for Little to stop him on the sixth, but he stopped his "Kid" challenger so completely that he squared the match on the ninth hole, went ahead with a bold iron shot and a beautiful explosion on the 58th and 12th and 14th was the headmaster, although King tossed away chances to win holes by overputting the fast drying greens.

Little, two under par for the front nine, finished up even with par for 17 holes, losing strokes on the way back to reckless shots that nestled in traps. But he had to play recklessly in spots.

Lain survived by defeating Bayard Mitchell of Pine Valley, N. J., 3 and 2, but he was five over par for 16 holes.

Except for the defeat of Francis Omet, twice champion, who was eliminated by Levi Yoder, 2 and 1, of cafeteria worker of Washington, D. C., the big field went through 75 opening matches yesterday, most of them in a driving rain, without a distinct upset. Omet was beaten in his first round match for the second successive year, 2 and 1, his usually straight woods getting him into trouble from start to finish and finally beating him after a fine comeback.

Forty-nine players drew first round byes and six others won by default, sending 128 into the second 18-hole round today.

Jeers Are Music

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10.—Public hatred is worth more to some wrestlers than popularity.

Jeers are music to their ears, for they mean that the boxoffice coffers are being filled with cash.

A number of wrestlers, having found that it pays big dividends, are specializing in being "villains" of the mat. Among them are Ernie Dusek, Frank Speer and George Zaharias.

Gaharias, a 235-pound Greek, in particular arouses the ire of the fans. He elbows, kicks, butts and gouges his opponents. The fans boo and jeer these tactics, but after all they put the money on the line to see him.

Shift Henrion, Guard From 1934 Team, To Tackle

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 10.—The first major development of Carnegie Tech's fall football training camp, which is being held in Skibo Bowl, on the campus, has been the decision to shift Nestor Henrion, brilliant left guard of last year, to left tackle.

As a sophomore last year, Henrion developed rapidly into a great star. A big, raw-boned lad, weighing close to 200 pounds, the Charleroi, Pa. boy was a defensive and offensive standout for the Tartans. He was selected as one of the six best guards in the country on the college captains' consensus team.

The coaching staff has long considered changing him over to tackle, especially because of the graduation of Croft and Doloway, the 1934 regulars. They hesitated to move him from a position where he was of tremendous value until Earl Hudson, a letterman last year, went down with pleurisy on the eve of the start of practice. Hudson was one of the few tackles who had had some varsity experience. It is not certain when Hudson can start practice, since he is still in a hospital, and with the opening game with Case in Cleveland only three weeks away, something had to be done in a hurry.

John Kawchak of Johnstown and Jock Sutherland of Butler, both sophomores, were told to fight it out for Henrion's old job, and it is nip and tuck to date. Sutherland was a tackle last year, but his speed makes him a good guard prospect.

As the Carnegie team starts to shape up now, Henrion will have to be the key man on the left side of the line, and Frank Chyczewski of Ambridge, who won his spurs as a sophomore last year, will bolster the right side.

When a tentative varsity lineup took the field the first time for signal practice, it had Mikalane, sophomore, at left end; Henrion, left tackle; Kawchak, left guard; Co-Captain Trbovich, center; Chyczewski, right guard; Yechnik, sophomore, right tackle; Sanford, right end; Kopsak, sophomore, quarterback; Co-Captain Terebus, left halfback; Lehman, right halfback, and Patt, fullback.

Budge came back from England with the sobriquet, "The New Darling of Wimbledon." Against Grant, who was a darling in distress saved only by a drenching downpour of rain which interrupted the contest at the time Grant was leading 6-4, 6-4, 2-1.

Spirit Broken After the first three games Budge's spirit appeared to be broken. Grant handled his famous cannonball service with impressive ease. This disconcerted Budge no little as Grant broke him twice in the first three games. On the other hand, he found Bissy's service a little hard to handle and stood with his mouth wide open as Grant served an ace for the final point of the first set.

More trouble than that, however, were Grant's soft, spinning forehand and backhand shots. Budge seldom could get set to slam across thunderbolt returns and had to content himself with keeping the ball in play and trying to place it out of the reach of his small adversary, but Grant was virtually "all over the lot."

They are scheduled to resume their match at 2 p. m. (eastern standard time) today.

Has Two Set Lead Over Budge When Rain Halts Play

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Bissy Grant was back in his accustomed role of "Giant Killer" of American tennis today.

For weeks the sports pages carried columns about the Wimbledon achievements of Donald Budge, the California youngster whose red hair flashes like a fireman's helmet. Budge's victories over Bunny Austin and Baron Gottfried Von Cramm earned him a rating among the five leading players of the world.

Reads Papers Bissy read the papers—that's one of his chief diversions when he isn't wielding a racket. To him, Budge was just another tennis player, though a sort of special one because he took a trimming from him last year when Grant was the favorite.

Too, Budge had beaten him at Newport this year.

They squared off across the net yesterday in a quarter-final match of the 54th men's national singles championship. This time Budge was the red-hot favorite. He was the one American player conceded a chance to dethrone Fred Perry of England.

Budge came back from England with the sobriquet, "The New Darling of Wimbledon." Against Grant, who was a darling in distress saved only by a drenching downpour of rain which interrupted the contest at the time Grant was leading 6-4, 6-4, 2-1.

Spirit Broken After the first three games Budge's spirit appeared to be broken. Grant handled his famous cannonball service with impressive ease. ## Huey Long Had a Flair For Phrases; Here Are A Few

(By Associated Press) — Here are some quotations from the speeches of Senator Huey P. Long: "I would rather see my laws (share-out-wealth) passed than be president. Passage of the laws is the only way they can keep me from being president if I want to be—unless I die."

"None will be too rich, none too big, none too small, but at the end and at the most — every man a king."

"I'd prefer to be the first citizen of Louisiana rather than the second citizen of the United States. I wouldn't have had any trouble swapping into the vice presidency the last time."

"When you go into a booth and ask for a ballot for either Roosevelt or Hoover, you're just asking for an introduction to the gatekeeper of hell."

"You can be the N. R. A. and P. W. A. and C. W. A. and the U. S. G. and G. I. N. and any other kind of dad gummed lettered code. You can wait until doomsday and see 25 more alphabets, but that is not going to solve this proposition."

"This ain't a Democratic party running the government now. It's a St. Vitus dance party designated by a blue buzzard, and a dead one at that."

"The Billingsgate and the profanity of all of the Farleys and the Johnsons in America can't prevent the light of truth from hurtling itself in understandable letters against the dark canopy of the sky."

The Louisiana had a flair for repeated use of phrases which caught his fancy. "Slap damn to hell" was one. He referred to Secretary Ickes as "the church bug of Chicago."

Here is a poem Long wrote: "Why weep or slumber, America? Lord of brave and true With castles, clothing and food for all

All belongs to you. Ev'ry man a king, ev'ry man a king.

For you can be a millionaire. But there's something belonging to others.

There's enough for all people to share.

When it's sunny June and December too, Or winter time or spring, There'll be peace without end. Ev'ry neighbor a friend, With ev'ry man a king."

Troops From Italy Barred by Emperor

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 10. — Emperor Haile Selassie today refused the Italian legation permission to bring Colonial Italian troops into Ethiopia.

Previously, the Italian legation had asked permission to bring in a detachment of Colonial soldiers as a special guard, just as the British have brought in Colonial troops from India assigned to duty in the legation compound. The Emperor refused.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

IN THE CATSKILL MOUNTAINS, where this is written and old Rip Van Winkle took his nap you actually get something for nothing.

Beautiful spring water flows abundantly all year round and nobody sends you a bill for it. It rises on the mountainside, flows through pipes, obedient to gravitation's law, and no intelligent politician has thought to put a meter on it.

The meter will come in time or a government tax on "flowing springs," and we may reach a "doors and windows" tax, such as European kings once collected on the theory that doors and windows admit sunlight and air, both the king's property.

To this day, in Italy and France, you may see imitation windows on the walls of houses, arranged for ornament, but tax-free families sleeping without fresh air back of them.

TAXATION can be made a fine art. Once, in France you were put in jail for collecting salt at the ocean's edge that meant dodging La Gabelle, the tax on salt.

Free water, while it lasts, seems strange in a land where you pay for everything, the obstetrician at the start, the undertaker or "mortician" at the end.

FRANCE discourages crime, and REALLY discourages it. The dreaded prison ship, La Martinique, is on her way to the criminal colony in French Guiana with 773 convicts locked in eight strong iron cages in the hold, with iron bars, cement floors, wooden benches, hammocks, and overhead a crisscross of pipes that would fill the cages with deadly live steam, if mutiny broke out.

DISTRESSING scenes mark the prison ship's sailing, wives and children, brothers and sisters of the criminals taking farewell forever from those that they will never see again.

No parole board sits in French Guiana. Each man ordered to the ship receives a new suit of clothes, a blanket, an extra pair of wooden shoes. That, with perhaps a few books and packages of chocolate from relatives, constitutes their wealth, as wrists chained, the convicts march, single file, up the gangplank between rows of bayonets.

They go to prison to STAY in prison.

It is a hard system, but being murdered on the American plan is also a hard system. In proportion to population, the United States has more than ten times as many murders as France. There may be something in their method, although justice should be tempered with mercy. If you say that to a Frenchman he answers "que mesieur les assassins commentent," which means "let the assassins begin it."

THE NEW YORK TIMES says many Republicans would like Henry Ford to run for president of their ticket. No doubt that many Americans would like to vote for him, but there is MUCH doubt as to Henry Ford's willingness to transfer his operations from reliable machinery and metals to uncertain American politics.

Now past 70, although in appearance about 50, and as nimble and active as a squirrel, Henry Ford has many plans ahead for the next 20 years. Running for president is probably not one of them.

WHILE THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS talks peace and arbitration, Mussolini recalls his consuls from various places in Ethiopia, reminding you of the clergyman who had a call to a large city. His little daughter said:

"Papa is in his library, praying for light, and mamma is upstairs packing."

FERRERO, the distinguished Italian historian, whose life of Caesar you should read, writing in Geneva, safely distant from Rome, says the Abyssinian war convulses Europe. It may not, since England and France have no intention of being "convulsed" at this time.

Mussolini who knows that well, possesses the philosophy of Jere Dunne, well-known New York rough and tumble fighter of the old Hoffman House days. No man ever beat him, and this was his explanation:

"When two men fight, usually both of them want to quit, and one ALWAYS wants to quit. I am never that once."

POPE PIUS, addressing a pilgrimage of World War veterans, says he sees "a rainbow of hope against the black clouds," and hopes for fulfillment, in peace, of all the aspirations of the Italian people. His words take you from this period of conflict and anxiety:

"We pray for peace, because we are the vicar of Christ, who is the King of Peace, as the vicar of this Divine Master, as the common father of all souls, we pray for peace."

IN A BERLIN suburb Germany's government erects a monument in memory of the late Theodor Fritsch, notorious enemy of the Jews. Herr Fritsch's anti-Semitic newspaper was called "The Hammer" and the monument shows an alleged "Aryan" sitting on a tooth's head, hammer in hand.

What an interesting poem Heinrich Heine, NOT Aryan, could have written about that.

A race that has survived the bonfire and tortures of the Middle Ages will outlast that monument.

England's Warlord

Gen. Sir A. Montgomery-Massingbird

In the event that England should carry out her threat of using arms to prevent Mussolini from invading Ethiopia, the burden of mapping her campaign and marshaling her armies would fall on the soldierly shoulders of Gen. Sir Archibald Montgomery-Massingbird (above), Chief of the Imperial General Staff.

ingly will doubtless be beneficial to those that attend. What an old fight that is! How long do you suppose it will last before the victory of righteousness is complete?

IT IS A FIGHT that started in the Garden of Eden, when Adam and Eve were put out for sinful disobedience. No fight could be more important than a fight to end sin, apart from mere increase of righteousness for with sin would go crime, which costs America at least ten billions a year.

Freedom from sin recommends itself to Americans, especially, for in addition to being admirable, it would pay.

ing the state's share of $20,000,000 state welfare institution building program and revision of the 1935-36 state budget. Governor Davey has applied to the federal public works administration for a grant of 45 per cent of the building total and a loan of the other 55 per cent.

Another state department felt the pinch of curtailed revenue. C. E. Black, superintendent of the Ohio gasoline tax division said his department had exhausted all of its stamp fund. He sought to borrow money to provide stamps for 2,000 pieces of mail.

Governor Davey, in slashing $8,800,000 from the biennial budget as approved by the general assembly, deleted an item of $5,500 for postage stamps to answer inquiries from our 60,000 applicants. "I don't know what we're going to do."

"We bring in approximately $42,000,000 yearly," Black moaned, "and now we haven't enough postage stamps to answer inquiries from our 60,000 applicants. I don't know what we're going to do."

LONG POLITICAL BAND HELPLESS

Huey's Powerful Louisiana Machine Now Rudderless

By RALPH WHEATLEY, Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10.—The death of Senator Huey P. Long, at the hands of an assassin, has left his powerful political machine rudderless. Politically, Louisiana was in a whirlpool today. It has no direction.

The king is dead but there was no king left to long live. When Huey Long passed from the political stage he left a half-dozen political leaders of about the same stripe. None overshadowed the other. If one tried to step ahead of the other there was danger of internecine warfare.

Gov. Allen Shaken
Normally the high man would be Gov. O. K. Allen but during his entire political career he has leaned heavily on Huey Long, who was a friend from the barefoot boy stage in Winn Parish. Today Governor Allen was so broken up over his friend's death that he was unapproachable.

Before Long's death, but after it was known that he would die, his political lieutenants held conferences on what steps to take. In them were Governor Allen, Seymour Weiss, Long political treasurer; Abe Shushan, director of the Orleans levee board; Lieut. Gov. James A. Noe, Allen Vellender, speaker of the house; George Wallace, Long's legislative adviser, and others.

On one of these six the chances are the toga of Long will fall but that will be determined in faction caucus later. Whether any one of these can hold the gigantic and all embracing racks laid down by the redoubtable Huey remains to be seen. There was only one Huey Long.

Foes Aroused
The death of Long also aroused the anti-Long politicians. They are out to catch up any political material that may drift away from the Long faction camp.

Long's death may reunite the old regulars in the City of New Orleans headed by Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, most of whose followers deserted to the ranks of Huey Long after the Long controlled legislature had driven the city into virtual bankruptcy. Long died just as he was driving through measures that would restore revenue to New Orleans after the old regulars had capitulated.

Song hits introduced in the film are "Headin' Home," "Tender Is the Night," "Roll Along, Prairie Moon" and "You're My Thrill."

Interesting facts about the stars appearing in "Here Comes the Band": Ted Lewis, high-hatted troubadour has tipped his famous high hat to every president of the United States since Theodore Roosevelt.... Charles "Snowball" Whittier, colored youth who has been with Ted Lewis for five years to aid in his "Me and My Shadow" number, assists in the same manner in this film.... Virginia Bruce, who was educated in Fargo, N. Dakota, is one of the few actresses who photograph perfectly without make-up.

CHALLENGER

OIL BURNERS ARE FULLY AUTOMATIC

NOISELESS ECONOMICAL

The Challenger is absolutely silent. There is no other burner like it. It is the exclusive patented process of carburizing the oil and pre-heating the gases before combustion takes place that does away with flame roars, which in the past have been objectionable to oil burning. There is no vibration or mechanical noise. At only a few feet away it is impossible to hear whether the Challenger is in operation.

The most up-to-date and economical methods are employed in the manufacture of the Challenger and make it available at a very low price within the means of every home owner. Not only is the initial cost low, but it is the most economical burner to operate. A special patented carburetor is its exclusive feature, an economical process of burning oil, which eliminates all waste.

IT'S SO SIMPLE WE CAN DEMONSTRATE IT IN YOUR HOME
